In response to applicant's amendment dated May 06, 2005. The following action is taken:

The claims are rejected for the same reasons set forth in the previous office action mailed July 22, 2004 repeated herein for applicant's convenience.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 40-49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Roth et al (5463607).

The reference shows an optical disk recording apparatus comprising: an input data V_a , transferred from an input memory means 6 to an encoder 50a, transferring the encoded data from the encoder 50a to a recording circuit 50b, 7 and 3. Memory level monitoring means to determine the storage capacity V_{g1} , stopping the data recording on the disk if the memory level is below a predetermined level see fig 2 steps S6-S8 wherein the data from the memory is maintained see column 6 lines 62-68. The reference in figs 2 and 4 discloses the use of a V_{min} and a V_{max} data stored in the memory means in order to control the data writing or pausing on the disk.

With respect to the limitation of claim 41. The claim read on resuming the recording operation based on the memory filing level see fig 2 steps S1-S4.

With respect to the limitation of claim 42. The reference discloses the use of a first level and a second levels V_{min} and V_{max} .

With respect to the limitations of claims 43 and 44. The reference discloses the use of an CIRC encoder 50a having an input data 5.

With respect to the limitations of claims 45-48. The reference discloses the use of a recording device to record digital data on an optical CD having a digital input data 5.

Applicant's arguments filed May 06, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments are centered around the prior art not showing the limitation "from an input buffer" and "from said encoder". However as shown in fig 6, the reference does disclose the use of an input buffer 6 transferring the data to an encoder 50a. the data is then tranfered to a recording circuit indicated by elements 50b, 7 and 3 meeting the claimed invention. The limitation "maintaining the encoded data" in the memory. The limitation "maintaining" merely read on having a predetermined memory fill level during the data recording/pausing operation. The reference does disclose in column 11 lines 1-18 the use of an encoder CIRC prior to the buffer memories which in turn would store the encoded data contrary to applicant's arguments.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. 6181653.
